Assistant Teaching Professor
University of Victoria – Department of Mathematics and Statistics

The Department of Mathematics and Statistics at the University of Victoria invites applications for an Assistant Teaching Professor position, leading to a continuing position, and subsequent eligibility for tenure, to commence July 1, 2020, or as soon as possible after that date. Successful applicants will be welcomed into a stimulating, collegial and culturally diverse department with an outstanding record in both research and teaching, and a University community that is strongly supportive of mathematical sciences training across a wide range of disciplines. A documented record of improving the participation of underrepresented groups in the mathematical sciences and an articulated plan to continue such activities will be considered an asset.

A Ph.D. in Mathematics or Statistics is required. Successful applicants will demonstrate a passion for teaching and will provide documented evidence of excellence in the delivery of mathematical sciences courses at the first- and second-year level. The successful candidate will be expected to teach a wide range of courses within the Department. The successful candidate will demonstrate the ability to teach students from a variety of departments and backgrounds. Experience in teaching Mathematics for Elementary Education, Pre-calculus, Calculus for Biological and Social Sciences, OR Statistics for Business, will be considered an asset.

Information about the department, including descriptions of courses offered, can be found at its website: www.uvic.ca/science/math-statistics/

Applications should be made through MathJobs.org, and should include: a cover letter detailing interest in and experience pertaining to the position; a curriculum vitae; a teaching dossier (or equivalent documentation) that outlines teaching experience, philosophy and effectiveness; and at least three letters of reference in support of the application. Questions about this position are welcomed and can be addressed to the Chair of Mathematics and Statistics at mschair@vic.ca. The Department encourages applicants who have experienced career interruptions for parental or other types of leaves to apply.

Review of applications will begin on January 3, 2020, and will continue until the position is filled.
