

Tenure-Track Position in Mathematics

Position # 002417TT-2023-MAT

The University of Windsor's Department of Mathematics and Statistics, in the Faculty of Science, invites applications for a Tenure-Track position at the rank of Assistant Professor, in the area of Mathematics, commencing as early as January 1, 2023. This position is subject to final budgetary approval.

The University of Windsor is a medium-sized university with a solid reputation in teaching and research, offering a friendly and supportive environment for both living and learning. It is Canada's southernmost university, and its border location provides unique cultural, recreational, and educational opportunities for faculty and students.

The Department of Mathematics and Statistics consists of 14 professors, 1 Sessional Lecturer, 2 Learning Specialist - Ancillary Academic Staff (), 2 support staff, and, in 2021-2022 about 120 undergraduate students and 58 graduate students. For further information about the Department, including information on our research areas, visit <http://www.uwindsor.ca/math/>. The department is in the Faculty of Science, which has a 1 to 20 faculty to student ratio, has more than $2M annually in scholarships, involves more than 70% of its students in research, and has more than $15M in annual research support.

The position in Mathematics is intended to enhance and extend the existing areas of research and teaching strength in Mathematics, with preference given to applicants in Analysis, broadly interpreted. The ideal candidate will have a PhD in Mathematics, with a record that supports the promise of a strong research career and a funded research program. Strong English communication and interpersonal skills and the ability to teach undergraduate and graduate courses are essential, as is the ability to contribute to our graduate program through the supervision of graduate students. Candidates will be committed to principles and practices of equity, diversity, accessibility, and inclusion, to anti-racism, anti-oppressive or social justice education.
